R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE Built circa 1950, this house is not a contributing structure at the time of this survey. It is a simplified Ranch style home. The house is one story with a low-pitched hipped roof incorporating a two car garage. It lacks the wide overhanging eaves typical in the Ranch style. The windows are double hung sash in groupings of 2 or 3 on the front (north) facade. It has aluminum siding, new garage doors, and an aluminum awning over the front entrance.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This one-story Ranch house has a low-pitched roof with eave overhangs. Part of the roof area is used as a carport, and is supported by post columns on three sides. The facade is asymmetrical and has a large picture window and a small rounded window. The entrance area is stepped back, and the door is perpendicular to the front of the house. It appears that storm doors and windows are original to the house. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE
1.			The home at 1600 Bessie Street is a part of the larger Sunset Terraces housing subdivision first lotted out in the late 1920s. Construction in this area continued well into the 1950s. Historically, Cape Girardeau has experienced its residential growth in this way. During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post-World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 1600 Bessie, as previously mentioned, is located on a block within the Sunset Terraces development. The majority of the homes on this block are of the same style, scale, massing, height, and design and have the same frontage and lot size. This home contributes nicely to this harmonious patterning and helps suggest a cohesive unit. Specifically, this home, built circa 1945, is of the Minimal Traditional style (1935-1950). The house reflects the Tudor Revival origins of this compromise style in that it shows the massing of the traditional forms, but retains few decorative elements. The house has the typical features of this style including a prominent chimney, lack of overhanging eaves, and a front facing gable.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1.			T. SIGNIFICANCE The original portion of this house has features of the Cape Cod style, however, many additions have been made and the house no longer retains its integrity. The additions cover the original features of the style, so much so that the original features are almost no longer visible. In addition, one portion of the house is encased in aluminum siding and the other in vinyl siding. The front facade, facing Bessie presents a multiple gable facade. The original portion is a cross gable to the front and on the east end of the side gable a door enters onto a small balcony with a flat roof supported by wood poles.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE The house at 1603 Bessie is of the Ranch style. The roof is hipped with gable dormers facing north, south and east. These are low pitched and have louvered vents. The hipped roof is common to the ranch style. A car port is attached to the house. The house has wide eave overhang, also common to the style. The lower portion of the house is of field stone and the upper is wood siding, also common. This house maintains its original integrity.

1.				The home at 1606 Bessie Street is a part of the larger Sunset Terraces housing subdivision first lotted out in the late 1920s. Construction in this area continued well into the 1950s. Historically, Cape Girardeau has experienced its growth in this way. During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post- World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 1606 Bessie was built circa 1945 as part of the Sunset Terraces development. Although it was constructed in a simpler Cape Cod style than its Minimal Traditional neighbors, the house still maintains the block's cohesiveness of design because of its similar massing, form, shape, size, and setback. This house is representative of the Cape Cod Style in its single story simple rectangular plan, steep-pitched roof, and expansive unbroken roof with a central chimney. Cape Cod's of the early 20th Century often included a Colonial Revival entry like the one on 1606 Bessie which has an arched entryway over an assymmetrically placed door.

The majority of the homes on this block are of the same style, scale, massing, height, and design and have the same frontage and lot size. This home contributes nicely to this harmonious patterning and helps suggest a cohesive unit. Specifically, this home, built circa 1937, is of the Minimal Traditional style (1935-1950). The house reflects the Tudor Revival origins of this compromise style in that it shows the massing of the traditional forms, but retains few decorative details. The house has the typical features of this style including a lack of overhanging eaves and a front facing gable.

During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post- World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 1620 Bessie, as previously mentioned, is physically a part of the Sunset Terraces development, but not aesthetically. The house at 1620 Bessie has undergone several building phases. The latest phase, dating to 1984, encases the entire original fabric, making it nearly impossible to identify its present architectural style. The historic integrity is completely lost visually. Furthermore, the additional second story makes 1620 Bessie the only two-story home on the same side of the block. Its height, massing, and modern construction also detract from the otherwise uniform style and size of structures on the block. Thus, this home can be classified as a non-contributing building. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE The house at 1631 Bessie St. presents a facade with the features of a dominant gable, a smaller door gable, and a flat roof on the east side. A main gable runs east and west just behind a large chimney. The entire house is of brick. The front door is of wood and holds an arched decorative stained glass window. Concrete steps lead to the door and wrought iron rails and decorations adorn the door, windows and roof. All windows are covered with aluminum awnings. The integrity of the house seems good. This house is of the minimal traditional style but is not a great example due to the ornamental elements. There are no obvious additions except for decorations.

1.			The home at 1632 Bessie Street is a part of the larger Sunset Terraces housing subdivision first lotted out in the late 1920s. Construction in this area continued well into the 1950s. Historically, Cape Girardeau has experienced its residential growth in this way. During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post-World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 1632 Bessie, as previously mentioned, is located on a block within the Sunset Terraces development. The majority of the homes on this block are of the same style, scale, massing, height, and design and have the same frontage and lot size. This home contributes nicely to this harmonious patterning and helps suggest a cohesive unit. Specifically, this home, built circa 1946, is of the Minimal Traditional style (1935-1950). This home in particular shows the Tudor Revival stylistic characteristics of a decorative shingled roof, massive chimney, and several large intersecting gables. Interestingly, the Minimal Traditional style comes out of the Tudor Revival (1890-1940). <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE The house at 1639 Bessie is in the minimal traditional style with strong Tudor revival elements. The facade has a dominant gable, a smaller gable over an arched door, and a half porch. The house is of red brick which is common in the Tudor revival style. The paneled front door is centered in the facade. With asbestos tile-like shingles and a large chimney on the west end, the house does give the feeling of a Tudor revival construction. Overall, however, the house lacks enough features to classify it as truly Tudor revival. The house is more consistent with the minimal traditional style of the early 20th century which is a style that developed from the Tudor revival. There does not appear to be any noticeable additions to detract from the integrity. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE A perfectly rectangular commercial building with a flat/shed roof of tar and gravel. The front facade is dominated by four almost full length paired single paned fixed windows. The door mirrors the design of the windows and is centered on the front facade. The sides of the building are uninterrupted brick devoid of any openings. The structure is set back from the road on a paved lot. The roof curves slightly downward to create a mushroom-top effect. This 'cap' is of aluminum material in a panel design. The rear of the building has several service entry doors and a few smaller single paned windows.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is a Minimal traditional with strong Tudor Revival influences. A two story, brick structure with a dominant eastern front facing cross gable projection. This part of the house has paired windows with triple vertical panes over a single pane. The second story of the gable has the same window, in singular form. The rest of the front facade has a door with an aluminum awning above it and triple matched windows that are of the same design as those on the gable facade. There is a side-entry with a stoop, also covered with an aluminum awning. There are several more windows, matching those of the front facade, on the side of the house. The brickwork of the house is distinctive and bold, with thick mortar between, giving a decorative design. There is one end chimney on the western facade. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

1.				The house is a one-and-a-half story bungalow style with a wide expanse porch supported by four paired post columns. A front facing central gable dormer dominates the roof which is low-pitched and side-gabled. The house is flanked by a large exterior brick chimney. The integrity of this bungalow is compromised by added storm windows and non-period aluminum awnings, however, all the architectural features that defines the bungalow style are still intact, making it a fine example of the bungalow style.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Colonial Revival Garrison style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 409 Franklin does meet the 50 year National Register criteria. This home was built in 1936 and was the first home in the neighborhood. 409 Franklin was built by Mr. Nussbaum, the father of the current owner and resident. Around 1960 a 25 x 18 foot addition was placed on the rear of the house. This addition includes a concrete patio. From a front facade view this addition cannot be seen and does not take away from its historic character. This home is the only two story example within this block of Franklin.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Colonial Revival CapeCod style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time it does meet the National Register 50 year criteria. It was built in 1940 on the lot directly north of the first house built in the neighborhood. 415 Franklin was the second house built in the Schuelter neighborhood. In 1975 a rear patio was added to the home. It is not visible from the front facade of the home. The south end enclosed garage and walkway are not additions, they were built at the time of the original construction.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Ranch style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. It currently does not meet the 50 year National Register criteria. The house maintains architectural integrity. The sprawling ranch look is combined with Prairie influences such as the use of stone, the massive stone chimney and the stone planter. The lawn is well manicured and contributes greatly to the atmosphere of the neighborhood. It has a significant role in the development and continued growth of the Schuelter neighborhood.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Ranch style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 425 Franklin does not meet the 50 year National Register criteria. It does have architectural integrity and is well maintained. In the future this home may be a significant asset to the historic neighborhood. It is a good example of the Ranch style architecture. Its location to Southeast Missouri Hospital's back facade, make it a target for expansion. Currently it is privately owned.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1.				T. SIGNIFICANCE 030 Architecture - 1428 Independence is a classic Bungalow style residence. The side-gabled roof slopes gently to cover the porch, the large centered dormer, and porch beams all point to the afore-mentioned style. Though the porch has been screened in, and a second story added to the back of the house, the facade appears to be relatively unchanged. The neighborhood in which this residence is located was fairly suburban between 1910 and 1950. Only after the mid-century point did Independence see commerce as a major neighborhood player. In fact, many of the same style homes exist throughout the vicinity.

The heating and cooling business is located at the back of the lot and is the only building parallel to Independence street. The four apartments that make up the rest of the building were once Motel rooms. The property is a typical vernacular interpretation of the 1950's roadside Motel that has been adapted once the original business is no longer open.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE 030 Architecture - 1438 Independence is a Bungaloid style home. The exposed decorative braces along the roof line, cross-gable roof, and fairly wide eaves all point to the bungalow style. However, the distinctive porch of the bungalow style has been closed in to make an extra room. The exterior has also been covered with vinyl siding, and the windows have been replaced. But, the concrete foundation and exposed brick-work still are reminiscent of the Bungalow Style. The only other building on the property is a two car garage that sits to the back and side of the house.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE 050 Commerce - 1444 Whitener is located on one of the most traveled roads in Cape Girardeau. The business is a franchise operation so the name Ziebart Tidy Car is partially local and partially national. But, the business is the only car and truck detail shop in town. The location is easily accessible and the facade was recently changed to give the building a more modern look. The owner of the property also owns the lot adjacent to the property and has it paved for parking. A seasonal greenhouse and garden center take up about one-third of the lot, and is run by the owner's wife.

1.				Lot 7. White Star Addition. This Craftsman bungalow has a concrete foundation and a balloon frame. The characteristic features are a full porch, low pitched, side-gabled roof, gabled dormer, triangular knee braces under side eaves and small high windows on each side of the chimney. It also has a projecting, one story bay with gable roof. The windows are the original multi-pane sash over sash with one large glass pane; removeable storm windows have been placed over the original windows. This building has the same general design plan as the building on the neighboring property to the west. The full porch has been altered with only the original foundation and stairs remaining; any piers, columns, or railing original to the porch has been removed. The addition on the back was constructed in a manner which blends with the overall style of the house and visually does not detract. Asbestos covers original wood siding.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE Lot 11. White Star Addition. This Neoelectic--Mansard/Neo-French building has a concrete foundation and a balloon frame. The characteristic features are rusticated quoins, a mansard roof detail (over entry way), segmental arch windows, and two wide chimneys. When the original building was remodeled c. 1965, brick facing was added to the exterior of most of the structure. Other features such as the mansard roof detail were also added at this time creating the Neoelectic style which now exists (its original style was undetermineable). The addition on the back--it was the garage but is now an apartment--does not keep with the main building's architectural style; it is of plain construction and has weatherboard siding. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This 1 story commercial building presently vacant. At one time it was SEMO Telephone & Electric Art Co. The integrity of this building is questionable due to the many changes to its facade. The broken facade and the low hipped roof are two of the unusual characteristics of this structure. The building also has large over-hanging eaves, a rear chimney, and two entrances. The windows are various sized double hung.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. Spradling, Albert S. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE This single story ranch house with pearl grey cedar siding has a rambling appearance as a result of two additions, enhanced by the terraced effect of the telescoping roof. Two large brick slab chimneys and two low stone walls accent the horizontal qualities of the ranch form. While the integrity has been altered from the original form, the additions and shake exterior are complementary. This house contributes to the flavor of the district and is handsome in its setting, due to the unique exterior treatment and well-tended attributes.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Ranch style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 408 Keller does not meet the 50 year National Register criteria. It does have significance because of its relation to the first house built in the neighborhood, and its builder. 408 Keller was built by Mr. Nussbaum, who also built 409 Franklin. 409 Franklin was the first house in the neighborhood. At one time, 408 Keller and 409 Franklin were located on the same property. In 1988 these properties were separated into individual lots. A small 16 x 24 foot area was added to the rear of the house around 1965. This addition cannot be seen from the front facade of the building. It does not take away from the ranch-like appearance of the front facade.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Ranch style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 416 Keller does not meet the 50 year National Register criteria. The integrity of the home has been compromised with the addition of vinyl siding to the majority of the exterior. Only a small portion of the stone facade is visible. It is unknown if more stone was present before the addition of the vinyl siding. Like its next door neighbor, 426 Keller does have window awnings only on the front facade.

2.X. Further Description

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Modern Minimal Traditional style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 420 Keller does not meet the 50 year criteria of the National Register. The basic design is very similar to that of 424 Keller, the house located on the lot on the north side of 420 Keller. The difference being the addition of window awnings to 420 Keller. The overall landscape shows evidence of erosion. It is a relatively small house which is in proportion to the other houses on this block of Keller. The houses located on Franklin, directly behind Keller, are larger and more stylistic houses within the neighborhood.

As part of the Schuelter neighborhood, this Modern Minimal Traditional style house contributes to the character of the neighborhood. At this time 424 Keller does not meet the 50 year National Register criteria. It is naerly the same design as 420 Keller, the house directly South of 424 Keller. It is an extemely simple structure with no decoration. It is currently entrusted to Boatman's Bank as part of the life estate of Keith M Reed, the prior owner of 424 Keller. A small 10 x 10 foot utility room was added to the back of the house in 1974. It does not take away from the overall appearance of the house.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1.				T. SIGNIFICANCE A two story brick on wood bungalow. The house has a roof dormer with triple grouped windows of a 9 x 9 variety. There is a wide overhanging roof that shelters the partially enclosed front porch. Supported on one side by a square column the other side of the porch has been enclosed with windows of four vertical panes over a single pane design. Where room allows, there are wooden shutters decorating the windows. The side of the house has three windows, two on the first story and a paired one on the second story, all have the vertical panes over a single pane design. There is a matching outbuilding of brick and wood on the southeast corner of the lot that appears to have been a garage at one time.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE As the most representative home on the block of the Bungaloid style, this house has many original and typifying characteristics. It is side gabled with a dual pitched roof to the front, on which is a wide shed dormer. The dormer has exposed rafters and a 3 window grouping. All of the windows in the house are 3 over 1 or 5 over 1 construction. There is a full front porch with heavy brick piers and half piers. A gabled box window is on the north facade. The roof and weather boarding are original. Unlike the other Bungaloid homes on the block the ornamental roof brackets are still present.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This one-and-half story brick Tudor house has a dominating facade cross-gable with a steeply pitched roof. The roof of the main body of the house has a lower pitch. A chimney with minimal decorative stone and separated chimney pots is prominent on the facade wall. The house has a corner porch entry with front and side arches. The two facade windows on either side of the chimney are narrow and double-hung sash. Similar windows in pairs are found on the other sides of the house. All windows appear to be of original wood construction, but have been covered with aluminum storm windows. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This Craftsman Bungalow has a full facade porch with four brick square piers resting on a solid blaustrade railing. The house is one-and-a-half stories and is brick on the first level. The low-pitched roof is side-gabled with wide eave overhangs and triangular shaped braces. A large central cross-gabled dormer with a three segmented window dominates the front of the house. A brick exterior chimney flanks the house on the gable end and pierces the roof near the front of the house. The windows and doors appear to be of the original wood construction.

1.				This house is a good example of the Minimal Traditional style with a multi-gabled roof, central chimney and L-shaped design. The house has a side entrance, located beneath the attached car-port; the focus of the main facade is a large picture window. Integrity is compromised by the aluminum siding along the gabled end of the roof.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is a good example of the Neo-Tudor Revival style. It has a steep intersecting cross gabled roof; paired front false-shuttered windows symmetrically placed; and a recessed arched portico entrance beneath the offset narrow gabled roof. Chimney (painted white) located along East facade. Integrity compromised by addition of vinyl siding, & a large fully-extended shed dormer addition at rear of house. The front portico remains intact, with the brick detailing still visible beneath the stucco. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE The house at 1732 Luce Street is in the minimal traditional style with Tudor revival influences. The facade has a dominant gable, a smaller gable over an arched door, and a recent edition of a half porch. The house is of red brick, which is common in the Tudorrevival style. The paneled front door is centered on the facade, and to the side is a diamond paned window. Windows found throughout the home are six over one double hung windows. With asbestos tile like shingles and a large central chimney, the house does give the impression of a Tudor revival construction. Overall, however, the home lacks enough features to classify it as truly Tudor revival. The house is more consistent with minmial traditional style of the early 20th century which is a style that developed from the Tudor revival.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is an example of the Colonial Revival style of the early 20th century. It retains many of the features of this style. The west facade is symmetrical with two dormer windows of 8 over 8 double hung sash. There is a panel door set in the central bay. Dormers and panel doors are common features of the Colonial Revival style. Also common are bay windows which this house has on either side of the front door. The house is of red brick and a chimney dominates the north end gable. The colonial revival style was common for early 20th century urban developments. This particular house appears to retain high integrity. There are no distracting additions.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE This minimal traditional home is located at 309 Sunset Street. The home is constructed of brick. The steeply pitched side gabled roof has minimal gable deatils and a front gable dormer. The facade is dominated by one prominent cross gable. The massive brick chimney is decorated with patterned brick work on the lower half, and is located on the south side of the home. The widows are three over one double hung windows. Centered in the cross gable is an oriel window, with an arched window with diamond panes in the center of the gable.

1.			The house at 312 Sunset is of red brick with a medium pitch side gable roof. The front facade is symmetrical with three bays. The central bay features a front door sheltered by an aluminum awning. All windows are one over one double hung sash adorned with green shutters. A central chimney tops the roof ridge. Although the house has few stylistic elements, it is consistent with the Cape Cod style of the early 20th century. The house is a rectangular plan and no additions are noticeable. The house has good integrity and is a good example of the type of variety of styles in this neighborhood. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

1.			The house at 320 Sunset Blvd. is of white painted brick and features a dominant side gable roof. The facade has a cross gable facing west and a flat roof over a half porch. decorative pilasters flank the centrally positioned door. Wrought iron posts support the porch roof and add a decorative touch to the facade. An attached car port sits toward the rear of the house on the north side. Due to the lack of significant features on this house it is more correct to call it minimal traditional in style than anything else. The steepness of roof and the visibility of the chimney along with the front facing cross gable are common for this style. There does not appear to be any threats to integrity.

1.			The house at 326 Sunset Blvd. is of the Tudor revival style and retains many features common to that style. The west or front facade features a multi-gabled end of stone. the stone extends up into a massive chimney. This combined with the steep pitch of the roof, the brick exterior, and the paired casement windows of the facade make this a good example of the Tudor revival style in early 20th century urban areas. Wooden shutters and a stone arch way at the south side of the stone end add to the features of this Tudor revival home. There is no visible additions or issues of integrity. The house is a good example of the Tudor revival style as it appears in this neighborhood. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

1.			The home at 402 N. Sunset is a part of the larger Sunset Terraces housing subdivision first lotted out in the 1920s. Construction in this area continued well into the 1950s. Historically, Cape Girardeau has experienced its residential growth in this way. During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 402 N. Sunset, as previously mentioned, is located on a block within the Sunset Terraces development. The majority of homes on this block are of the same style, scale, massing, height, and design and have the same frontage and lot size. This home contributes nicely to this harmonious patterning and helps suggest a cohesive unit. Specifically, this home, built circa 1940, is of the Minimal Traditional style (1935-1950). This house reflects the Tudor Revival origins of this compromise style in that it shows the massing of the traditional forms, but retains few decorative elements. Typical features include the front facing gable and lack of overhanging eaves, but the dormer and bay window detract. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE
1.				The house at 420 N. Sunset is a part of the larger Unset Terraces housing subdivision first lotted out in the 1920s. Construction in this area continued well into the 1950s. Historically, Cape Girardeau has experienced its residential growth in this way. During the 1920s, several new subdivisions were created in response to growth in industry and local business. In the 1930s, despite the Depression, money from swamp drainage and railroad projects kept the city booming. Like many other communities, the post-World War II building boom spawned planned communities and tract housing. 420 N. Sunset, as previously mentioned, is located on a block within the Sunset Terraces development. The majority of homes on this block are of the same style, scale, massing, height, and design and have the same frontage and lot size. This home contributes nicely to this harmonious patterning and helps suggest a cohesive unit. Specifically, this home built circa 1940, is of the Minimal Traditional style (1935-1950). This house reflects the Tudor Revival origins of this compromise style in that it shows the massing of traditional forms but retains few decorative elements. Typical features seen in this example include the front facing gables, prominent chimney, and a lack of overhanging eaves.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This renovated bungalow has a 1/2 porch on the front facade with front facing gables that extend over the porch that is supported by squared brick piers. There is an intersecting section of dormers that break the roofline through it's center, creating dormers on the north and south facades. The dormers hold three single pane rectangular windows. The front facade has one-over-one vertical paned windows, there is a bay window on the southern facade. The house has extensive renovations resulting in several add-ons and changes to the overall floorplan. There is a large addition on the rear second story of the house, serving as a sunroom. The house is mainly brick with some aluminum siding accents on the dormers and windows.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is a good example of the Minimal Traditional style, as is reflected in the asymmetrical facade, gabled roof, and an arched projecting portico. A central chimney is located near the roof extension at the back of the house. Louvers, constructed of the same brick as the house, are located at the gabled ends. The house has a high level of integrity, as the only change has been the covering of the garage with siding.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE This two story Minimal traditional with Tudor influences, has a steeply pitched side gabled roof. The left side of the front facing gable has a projecting room with paired 3 x 3 double hung sash windows. The right side is dominated by a massive square shaped chimney. Flanking the chimney are simulated diamond paned windows. There are two front entrances, one on the front facing facade and the second to the left of the chimney on the slightly projecting room. On either side of the house there is a projecting window detail of approx. 3'. Shutters decorate the windows, the house is covered with siding and has brickwork on the chimney.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is a mixture of Colonial Revival features. A small arched gable with flared eaves protrude over the front door. This gable is somewhat Dutch Colonial. The transom lights on both sides of the front door, the lack of symmetry in window placement, the central chimney, and the smooth facade are typical of the English Post Medieval style. The massing of the house is typical of the Cape Cod style.

1.				This residence retains many French Neoelectic features, however, it is difficult to give it a style. The building is brick with a stuccoed two story front piece and two stuccoed dormers. The front piece protrudes out about four feet and both the front piece and the dormers have slightly arched tops. The side windows are sash windows and the front windows are tri-pane windows. The dormer windows appear to be one pane single windows. A large chimney was added to the west facade in 1977.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house retains many architectural features. The combination of these features gives it a Colonial Revival appearance. The first floor roofline gives the impression of an overhanging jetty. The entrance protrudes about four feet and is steeply pitched. The large brick chimney and the west side facade give the house a Colonial Revival look. The six over six double hung sash windows are also a typical Colonial feature. The second story gable is also very steeply pitched.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE A one and a half story brick mixed Cottage style and Modernment with side gabled roof which extends left over the garage and right over to the single flute brick chimney. The roof line above the garage and the house match the same syle including the dormers. However, the dormer above the garage is a shed dormer and the dormers on the house are gabled. All the dormers have 6 over 6 double-hung windows. To the right of the door is a large picture window which has two 6 over 9 double-hung windows on either side of the single pain glass window. Just to the right of the chimney it appears to be a modern addition to the house covered in the same style siding as those found on the dormers.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1.					T. SIGNIFICANCE A one and a half story brick and aluminum sided Minimal traditional house with a gabled roof which leads to the right a large brick double flute chimney. On the north facade there is a recessed one story one-half porch and under the porch is a large picture window with two 10 pains of glass on either side of a large piece of glass. Like many of the houses along this street this house also has a one story partition on the north facade. In the center of this partition there is one 6 over 6 double-hung window. On the east facade near the gable there are two 6 over 6 double-hung windows, beneath them ther is a small four painned fixed window. To the right of the fireplace there is another small four pain fixed window. Toward the rear of the house there is one 6 over 6 double casement window. On the west facade there are two windows in the gable similar to those found on the opposite facade. There are three 6 over 6 double-hung windows beneath the other two, these three windows are positioned evenly apart with the smaller of the three in the center of the other two.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE
1.				A one story Ranch style gabled roofed double entrance home. This house due to its location it is hard to detect if the main entrance is along Themis or facing the high school. On the north facade the door sits just off center with two triple vertical pains of glass over a single piece of glass window. The gable entrance appears to have a mixture of some type of stone, wooden vertical clapboards, and aluminum siding atop leading to the gable. On the east facade to your left you will see two carport, one connecting directly to the house and the other a flat aluminum man made carport. On this facade the door is set off to the right, to the right of the door you will see two long vertical picture windows with about eight inch high rectangle windows beneath them. This house seems to to be the most resent built property along this block due to its modern style built house.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE Clad in white aluminum siding with black shutters, this house has indication of minimalist Tudor influence in its brick chimney, cobbled with random limestone and three corbie steps. The integrity of this structure has been cosmetically compromised by siding and two ill-placed louvered electric ventilating fans on the east and west facades between the first and second floors. While the interior has been reclad, the overall shape, setback, and flavor of this house is in keeping and contributes to the district as a whole.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE The Minimal Traditional style house is a gable front and wing subtype structure. The porch has square posts and a segmental arched frieze, indicative of the Queen Anne inspiration. Lower story double hung windows are of the six over six pattern. A half round window is located in the front facing gable. Siding is white in color and is of the shiplap design. Shutters on the front facade are of the vertical plank style. The chimney is located on the east side gable and is constructed of brick using the stretcher common bond pattern. The roof is steeply pitched and is covered with asphalt shingles. The house was originally built to include five rooms and a bath, full basement, and hardwood floors.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is typical of Colonial Revival Houses after 1910. The side gabled roof and two story simple design is common in about 25% of all Colonial Revival Homes. This particular house has a second story overhang reminiscent of Postmedieval English prototypes. This style is symmetrical. The wing on the right of the house is the only exception. This was an addition to the original the layout of the house. The house also contains the typical window design of six over six panes on the second story. These windows usually have multipane glazing on one or both sides. The front door is centered on the front facade and adds to the symmetrical balance of the structure. Each window also has decorative shutters on the front facade. The chimney is situated on the right side of the house. There is a decorative awning above the front door.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE The Tudor Revival style house includes a steeply pitched roof covered with asphalt shingles. The front facing gable accentuates the entry-way as well as a blind arched brick decorative design with keystone and header. Stone work is also integrated into the brick entry gable facade. Windows are of the double hung style and feature a six over six pattern. The original opening of the west front windows indicate tall narrow windows, typical of the Tudor Revival style. A massive chimney is located in the west gable end of the structure. All of the brick veneer work uses the common bond stretcher pattern. The house was originally built to include six rooms and bath and hardwood floors.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE The Minimal Traditional style was the earliest style of the modern era. houses developed after WWII. The Minimal Traditional is loosely based on the Tudor style. The higher pitched roof has been lowered but the dominant front gable still exists. One may also notice the large chimney on the right side of the house and the paired windows on the first and second floor. These features resemble the Tudor style of earlier architectural styles. The house also consists of a full front porch with decorative iron columns supporting the overhanging eave above the porch.

1.			The Colonial Revival style house includes a roof that is of moderate pitch covered in asphalt shingles. A Chimney is placed at the east gable end and is constructed of brick using the stretcher common bond pattern. Decorative shutters flank each of the double hung windows located throughout the structure except for the lower story window in the front facade. This window has been replaced with an extended three diamond pane casement window unit. A second story jetty is a feature of the front facade. The front entry of the building projects from the front of the facade and has a three sided mansard roof. The house was originally built to include six rooms, bath, and hardwood floors.

1.			The ranch style house features a low pitched roof with a cross gable to accommodate a carport. The roof is covered with asphalt shingles and exterior materials include cut stone broken course veneer and vertical plank siding. The pediment of the carport uses the same plank siding but is placed in a diagonal pattern, and includes returned eaves. The front entry consists of a flush front door with one light in the upper half. The carport is supported by black wrought iron decorative trellises, and the same pattern is used to decorate the frieze of the carport on the front facade. The front facade has two pair of double horizontal sliding windows with black decorative shutters that flank either side. One large window unit with four diamond pane casement windows is located in the central part of the facade. The structure included seven rooms with two and one-half baths.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE 030 Architecture - 1449 Whitener is an excellent example of German Vernacular architecture in Cape Girardeau, Missouri. The steeply pitched hipped roof, and square design along with the double front entry, and portico reveal much about the kind of people (and their ethnic background) that settled the inland cape from the early 1800's to the middle of the twentieth century. This particular residence was most likely built between 1920 and 1930 from the looks of the construction materials, and for the most part, retains its exterior integrity.

1.				Russell & Whitener Addition. This vernacular Four Square is representative of the styles built in Cape Girardeau during this period of growth. The home has been altered for a two family dwelling. A stained glass window is located on the west side of the home. The front stoop is protected by an attached gable-roof porch, supported by iron posts. Half of the rear porch is enclosed, access by concrete steps. Integrity is somewhat diminished through modifications. Narrow lot with minimal landscaping. This home is similar to a Four Square just two doors down.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE 030 Architecture - 1451 Whitener is architecturally significant because of its vernacular, bungaloid style. The one-story, hipped roof example is typical of a locally interpreted version of the afore-mentioned style. The wide overhanging eaves and porch supports reaching the ground all help to identify the architectural style. But, above all the simplistic, straight-forward design matches the approximate construction date. The home has, on the other hand, experienced an addition (determined by a slight mismatch in brick color) to the back, and possibly part of the porch has been bricked in to provide an extra room. However, this now "half-porch" is rare, but characteristic to the Bungalow style. According to the tax card some changes occurred around 1950. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE 030 Architecture - 1455 Whitener is a vernacular interpretation on the Queen Anne Style of architecture. The home has an irregular roof shape, with three gables and a central hip connecting the gable ends. A porch wraps around one side of the residence, and exterior of the house changes underneath the porch (goes from a gable end to a bay under the porch). The home has been re-sided and turned into at least two apartments. With these changes some of the decorative elements characteristic of Queen Anne's may have been removed. On the other hand, no typical decoartive details may have existed, thus making the residence vernacular according to its architectural style.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE The house is a one story structure made of brick. The main roof is of hip style with asphalt shingles. The other bay porch extending out on the front has a gable roof. The windows are all double hung with 3 over 1 lights. The addition on the back of the house is modern whitewashed wood with double hung 1 over 1 windows and a patio slider. The railings are damaged, the house also needs extensive repairs and the landscaping has fallen victim to erosion causing the retaining walls to fall down to the sidewalk. The house is significant because it is Craftsman style, and the floor plan is typical of Chicago style Bungalows. Interior has hard wood and carpet on floors, plaster walls. This house has a hipped roof which is part of only 10 percent of Bungalows in existence. The other bay porch is typical of the Chicago style Bungalows. The 3 over 1 windows are also typical of the Craftsman style.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE
1.				This house is a solid example of the Craftsman Bungalow style. It has a sloping gable roof, a shed dormer, tapered porch piers, and a brick facade. The upper portions of the house have been stuccoed and vinyl sided. The support brackets have been removed and the open rafters have been covered. The windows on the upper story are newer as well. The storm door is of a colonial style. Although this house has lost some of its integrity to modern improvements, it would not take a great deal of cost to put them back in in order to increase its significance. The floorplan is typical of a one and a half story Craftsman Bungalow. It has a side gable roof, full width porch, a center dormer with a shed roof.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house represents the bungaloid style, or the evolution of the Craftsman style in the late 1920s and early 1930s. This house has had significant alterations to the exterior, which have hidden its historic details under vinyl siding and new windows. The house has also been added to in the rear. This swelling is well kept, but it has lost its historic integrity with the modern improvements and subsequently is non-contributing. The features that reflect the Craftsman style are a low pitched front gabled roof, wide overhanging eaves that have been enclosed with vinyl siding, the small rectangular floorplan of the original section of the house, and double hung windows that have been replaced.

1.				This is a charming Craftsman Bungalow with a concrete foundation and stucco exterior walls. The roof is gabled with a dormer on the front with a long sloping roof line over the porch which traverses the entire width of the front of the house. It is shingled with asphalt shingles. The interior of the house. It is has been carpeted with plaster walls. There is also an exterior garage which is architecturally compatible with the house. This is a well kept example of the Craftsman Bungalow style, possessing its historic integrity down to the storm doors and windows on the house. The windows of the dormers are single windows, the rest are 3 to five over one double hung. The features that define this as a Craftsman house are wide overhanging eaves with exposed rafters, full width porch with tapered piers, and capped piers at the center of the porch.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is an example of MODern movement, being Minimalist Traditional with influence from the Colonial Revival style of the WWII era. The front door retains the fanlight window. The porch is columned, and the windows are 8 over 8 double hung sash, except for in the addition to the east side of the house. The exterior has been covered in aluminum siding, which damages the historic integrity of the structure, and a canopy from the 50s was added to the side door. The house is significant from the standpoint of its contribution to the evolution of architectural styles in the early 20th century. The other features that make this house Minimalist Traditional are an intermediate pitched roof, a front facing gable, that echos Tudor influence and close rake eaves. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE This is a Craftsman Bungalow with a concrete foundation and brick walls. It has sloping gabled roof with brackets under the eaves. There is also a dormer on the front and asphalt shingles. The interior has hardwood and pine floors with paneled walls and acoustical tiled ceilings. The windows are 3 over 1 double hung. The exterior of the house possesses its historic integrity for the most part. The only alterations are in the form of vinyl siding over the wood portions above the brick and under the eaves. The brackets have been spared. On the dormer, shingles have been put on the 3 walls rather than the clapboard siding it once had. The house is in solid condition and worthy of preservation. The house is typical of the one and a half story Craftsman bungalow that has a full width porch, side gabled roof, center dormer window with a front gable roof, and the decorative support <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET brackets.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)			T. SIGNIFICANCE This house is representative of the Modern Movement in that that it comes from the middle 1930s when Minimalist Tradition homes were built in the eclectic compromise with no decoration. This house is still has 3 over 1 Craftsman windows in it but the exterior is covered in vinyl siding, which covers its historic etails. The basic structure is still intact, but the integrity has been compromised by the vinyl siding. The features that make it Minimalist Traditional are the front facing gable roof that echoes tudor influences, close rake eaves, and intermediate roof pitch, with a lack of ornamentation and decoration.

1.			This is a Craftsman Bungalow with a concrete foundation, brick wall, and smooth wood painted walls on the second story. There is a shed dormer on the front, with a low overhanging roof over the porch which traverses the width of the house. The windows are 3 over 1 double hung. The brackets are still intact under the eaves and the plank wood is still present as well. The roof has asphalt shingles. The interior has been carpeted and has plaster walls. This house is a well kept example of the Craftsman architectural style. This house is typical of the one and a half story Craftsman bungalow with a side gable roof, full width porch, the center dormer with a shed roof and the support brackets under the eaves. Also the 3 over 1 light windows are another typical feature.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE White Star Addition. This 1 1/2 story vernacular tudor revival has steeply pitched crossed-gabled roof with asphalt shingles and two cross gables at the front, characteristic of the tudor revival style. There is a massive brick chimney located on front of the house another tudor influence. The house was originally covered with weatherboarding but is now covered with aluminum siding, sitting on a concrete foundation. Windows are double-hung wooden sash windows, with a modern sliding two-part window on upper story. One set of windows located next to front door(gabled) is three together, a common tudor characteristic. This tudor revival(vernacular) house's integrity is compromised slightly by presence of aluminum siding. A newer addition was added onto the original structure c. 1968. <input type="checkbox"/> SEE CONTINUATION SHEET

1.			The house is built of brick with a concrete wall foundation. The roof is of the gable design with three gabled ends to the front and right. The shingles are asphalt. The floor surface on the other bay porch is concrete, and the interior has hardwood floors, 3 bedrooms, and plaster walls. This house is significant because it is representative of the Craftsman architectural style, and it is in good repair. The front storm door and the unattached garage are the only non-contributing factors. The features that are typical of the Craftsman style are the low pitched cross gabled roof, the 3 over 1 light windows in groupings of three double hung sets are also typical. The wide overhanging eaves with exposed rafters are also typical. The floorplan is also a small rectangular configuration that is another feature.

1.				A one storey vernacular bungalow, this house is representative of other buildings of its type in the historic White Star Addition. It has a rectangular form reminiscent of the Craftsman style, along with a three-quarter porch which has half-piers. It does not possess enough typical elements to be classified as Craftsman. The house has undergone a number of modern alterations including an extensive addition of aluminum siding.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.				T. SIGNIFICANCE This one-and-a-half storey front gabled bungalow is representative of its vernacular type from the 1920's and 1930's. It possesses a rectangular form reminiscent of the Craftsman style prevalent in the White Star Addition. The house displays also elements such as a full-width porch and half-piers. While it does not exhibit enough Craftsman features to be properly classified as such, it is typical of its architectural subcategory.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE White Star Addition. This 1 story bungaloid has low pitched side-gabled with overhanging eaves, with an asphalt shingled roof. A second front cross gable extends over the full-width porch, which has two full brick piers, which are placed atop a concrete building foundation. All of these characteristics are from the Bungalow style prevalent during the 1920's-1930's in Missouri especially. Two other brick half-piers surround central stairs and door, which appears to be original. Exterior walls are covered in metal siding, set upon a concrete foundation. Windows are original double-hung sash windows. Also on this bungaloid is a typical squared bay on west side of structure. Integrity is compromised slightly by aluminum/metal siding.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S) 1. 2. 3.			T. SIGNIFICANCE White Star Addition. This 1 1/2 story vernacular tudor revival has the steeply pitched side-gabled roof, with wall type dormers(two) along roof line, with small rectangular windows with original treatments and the roof is covered with asphalt shingles. All of the features are typically of tudor revival houses. A front gable with an arched entryway cover the central bay porch, which is surrounded on both sides by original wooden sash windows in groups of three, another tudor revival characteristic. Exterior walls are original weatherboarding material. House sits on a concrete foundation. An addition to house was added c.1955, onto the back of the house and has a roof-supported back patio. House is well maintained and integrity is good, with exception of more modern porch addition.

R. SIGNIFICANT PERSON(S)				T. SIGNIFICANCE George C. Thileniuis was a significant individual in the development of business in Cape Girardeau. His entrepreneurial activities centered around his home at 100 Longview Place. The architectural style dominates the street. It is a great example of a Classical Revival and is on the National Register of Historic Places. The house is also a great example of post-Civil War construction in the Cape Girardeau area. It is a one and one-half story cross gable residence with a moderate pitched roof. Central Bay porch with squared Doric columns.
